Places you can visit on the Pokhara tour

Devis Waterfall (Patalae Chango)

Devis Waterfall, Known locally as Patale Chango, is an impressive waterfall located about 2 km southwest of Pokhara Airport on Tansen Road. A charming modern legend has it that a foreigner, Mr David, bathed naked in the Pardi Khola (river). The tide came out of the wet and washed him into an underground passage under the waterfall, never to see him again.

Gupteswar Mahadev Cave

After visiting Davis Falls, we leave the road and drive down to see the amazing caves. It is one of the sacred lakes in Pokhara. The entrance distance from Devi waterfall and the cave is almost 3 km. It has an extensive area inside; you can see small temples, and the locals seem to pray here often. This cave has a unique value for Hindus as a phallic symbol of Lord Shiva. You have to pay 5 rupees as an entrance fee. You are not allowed to take pictures in the cave.

Bindhyabasini Temple

Bindhyabasini Hindu temple is a centre of religious activities in the old bazaar. It is the temple of Goddess Bhagwati, another manifestation of Shakti. Devotees come here to make offerings, and, especially on Saturdays, the park-like grounds become a festive fair. It is the best temple to visit on our day trip to Pokhara.

World Peace Pagoda

It is a huge Buddhist stupa standing on a hill on the southern shore of Lake Phewa. The Buddhist monks of the Japanese organization Nipponzan Myohoji built the peace pagoda. Apart from being an impressive sight in itself, the shrine offers spectacular views of the Annapurna mountain range, Lake Phewa, and the city of Pokhara from an elevated point.

Seti Gorges

We visited this place on our trip to Pokhara. Carved by the Seti-Gandaki, the Seti River gorges are among the best places to see in Pokhara. The river has carved a deep and narrow gorge through the city's centre, turning the milky water in the process. It is just north of Old Pokhara, near the Gurkha Museum. You will observe the perfect view of the river's scary flow and the deep gorge created by the white water's turbulent flow.

International Mountain Museum

The International Mountain Museum is about 3 kilometres southeast of Lakeside Pokhara. The museum is accessible by bus and car. It will take you half an hour if you prefer to walk, while it will take you only 10 minutes by car. For those who need a scenic taste of the beautiful roadside, we recommend that you walk. About 70,000 people visit this museum every year. They are amazed by the numerous exhibits of famous peaks, the culture and way of life of people living in the mountains, and plants and animals' biological composition.

Visa extension (for multiple entries) additional 25 USD

Your passport validity must be for at least six months at the time of entry.

There must be a blank visa page in the passport.

Regular tourist visas:

Those arriving by air, the visa must be applied at the Nepalese Embassy or Consulate before entry or purchased directly upon arrival at Tribhuvan International Airport, Kathmandu. Note: Obtaining the visa on arrival may take some time. When foreigners enter Nepal by land via the Indian border at Belahia, and Nepalese visa fee must pay in U.S. dollars.

Entry into Nepal without a visa and proper entry stamp from an immigration officer is restricted, which carries additional consequences.

In most parts of Nepal, roads are in poor condition and lack of safety features. Mountain roads, in particular, are prone to blockages due to landslides and erosion during the monsoon season. These conditions result in a large number of accidents and fatalities. Traffic congestion is a significant problem for people living in large cities. Several incidents of traffic violations have been recorded in Kathmandu and other major cities. Many drivers do not have proper training and driving licenses but still drive on the roads. Be alert and avoid getting into such a vehicle.

To drive a two- or four-wheeled vehicle in Nepal, you must have the appropriate license for that vehicle. Otherwise, you have to pay the penalty according to the Highway Code. We suggest that you do not expose yourself to any trouble during your stay in Nepal.

Excursions with overnight stay:

The roads outside Kathmandu Valley are not adequately lit, and the roads' condition is not good. So it is safe if you avoid travelling outside Kathmandu during the night.

Motorcycle tours:

Know the speed limit of motorcycles and observe the safety measures when riding a motorcycle in Nepal. The number of fatal motorcycle accidents has increased drastically throughout Nepal in recent years. Never forget to wear a helmet and protective gear and not ride the motorcycles with more than one person.

Buses and Cabs:

If you must travel by bus, we recommend choosing to travel during the day rather than overnight due to the abnormal road conditions in most rural areas. Long-distance travel can be exhausting, and you may want to ride on the roofs of buses for some adventure. Never ride on dangerous rooftops to avoid accidents and traffic police, as depending on rooftops is against the Highway Code.

Cab rides are much more expensive than bus rides but can be safer and more convenient. All cabs have meters, but cab drivers do not usually charge by the meter. It is best to negotiate the fare before you get into the taxi; otherwise, the taxi driver may overcharge. If you feel you have been cheated, you can contact the traffic police in the nearby street or the local police station and file a complaint.

Review

We enjoyed our trip fullest and without stress.

We are very grateful to Mr Kishor and his team for arranging a wonderful trip and a memorable vacation for my family in May 2018. I decided to go to Nepal at the last minute, but Kishor helps me make a good itinerary with all the experiences we were looking for. We took the flight to Mount Everest from Kathmandu, which was a great surprise for my kids.

Our trip included Kathmandu and Pohara with a short hike to Ghandruk, where we stayed one night in a local tea house. It was a perfect balance of activities during our trip. The whole trip went smoothly, thanks to Rabin, our excellent trek guide. We were stress-free and thoroughly enjoyed the trip. We will be back for our next vacation and have already recommended them to family and friends.
